Aptera fusca, Table Mountain Cockroach

Part of the ecology of Table Mountain is this large, tubby, wingless cockroach. It is frequently found under stones or crawling about in the Fynbos. Endemic to South Africa they are cousins to the Madagascar Hissing cockroach and also hiss when alarmed.